RS-CROSS by Ramon Soler®, the evolution of a classic

Pure lines which combine both tradition, evolution, elegance, geometry and symmetry.

These words can be used to describe the new RS-Cross series by Ramon Soler®. It is a complete product line which has various options in order to fit right into the basin area, bath, shower and of course the kitchen.

The distinctive trait of this collection is its cross head handle, a modern classic which does not date due to the definition of its clean forms.

Its handle is a very special due to the combination of a straight and curved edge. A soft design without sharp lines. The aim of this project has been for the tapware to be adaptable to any type of ambience where these dual lever handles have a high visual impact.

Within the variety of taps in program there is a faucet for every conceivable location. These include the basin twin mixer with tall spout, a built in model for a smaller area, a bathtub column, a wall mounted or exposed thermostatic bath and shower valves and kitchen area taps.

There are complete thermostatic valve sets with slide bars, handshowers, hoses and 200 or 300mm diameter metallic showerheads. A line which maintains an elegant note of symmetry in any given space.

RS Cross, by Ramon Soler®, is more modern and stylised than the series which it replaces, the Iliada. Its sophisticated straight and curved lines, as well as its pure design, have not been created by chance.

Its star shaped handle combines both straight lines and curves and is thus very unique.
